

ADHD Research Study Opportunity

Researchers at the University of Kentucky College of Arts and Sciences are seeking individuals who think they may have ADHD. This study will collect data on estrogen levels across the menstrual cycle as they relate to ADHD symptoms. Participants will be compensated upon completion of study.

Individuals may be eligible if they are:

- between 18 - 25 years old and menstruate
- concerned that they might have attention, overactivity, or impulsivity problems
- NOT taking any hormone-based medications

Scan the QR code or visit <https://bit.ly/ADHDuky> for a survey to find out if you're eligible to participate!

For more information:

Michelle Martel, PhD
adhdlabuky@gmail.com
(859) 472-4172