

Opioid Research Opportunities

Researchers at the University of Kentucky College of Medicine Department of Behavioral Science are looking for people who use opioids for non-medical reasons to participate in a brain-imaging research study. This study is conducted on an outpatient basis.

You may be eligible to participate if you:

- are between ages 18-50;
- are available between 8am-5pm on weekdays;
- have NO major medical problems;
- use opioid drugs like heroin, Lortab, Percocet or Oxycontin for non-medical reasons;
- use opioid drugs daily or near-daily;
- get sick when you stop using opioids; and
- do not currently want to stop using opioids.

Eligible individuals will be paid for their participation and may be reimbursed for travel.

All information obtained will be kept confidential.
